Do You Keep Pure Bred Livestock

In August the swine specialist of the College of Agriculture called on Mr. Caleb Hitchcock, of Johnson county. Mr. Hitchcock has a very rough mountain farm; but he breeds registered Poland China hogs. When asked by the specialist if he found hogs more profitable than the mountain scrub he replied, "I have never made any clear money farming until I went in debt four years ago and bought some registered hogs."

Every farmer in Kentucky should realize that the pure bred sire is one of the most valuable assets in the way of producing better livestock that it is possible to own. Most of the farmers think it is too expensive, but when the high price of feed and labor is considered it will be found that it costs very little more to take care of the pure bred sires than it does to take care of the scrub. So therefore, why not improve your stock by keeping the pure bred sire? When a man is in trouble he is apt to find tobacco a greater consolation than sympathy.

Gained 17 Pounds and Her Wonderful Improvement Is The Talk of the Neighborhood

"It's no wonder that everybody sees a change in mother since she began taking Tanlac, for she has gained seventeen pounds and can get about better than for the last 25 years," recently declared T. E. Ellis, well known livestock dealer, living at Ramsey, Ky.

"My mother is now sixty-eight years old and for eight years had suffered from loss of appetite, nervousness, constant headaches, severe pains in the chest and back and frequent spells of dizziness. She became so bad off about five years ago that she had to give up all her housework and spent most of her time in bed. During all that time she neither knew what it was to have a well day or a night's rest, and her condition became so alarming that we never expected to see her up and about again."

"One day she read in the papers about someone who had been greatly helped by Tanlac, and nothing would satisfy her until she had tried it herself. So I drove 35 miles to Evansville and got her a bottle. She's had four more bottles since then and she has actually gained seventeen pounds in weight, and it's years since I saw her looking so well. She praises Tanlac all day long, and her remarkable recovery has made such a stir around Ramsey that scores of other sick people have been taking Tanlac with splendid results. I make a trip to Evansville every week and always carry back a load of Tanlac for the neighbors. We all think there is no medicine like it, and I'm glad of this chance of telling everybody about what it did for my mother."

Tanlac is sold in Mt. Sterling by Land & Priest.

NOONAN'S CONVICTION WAS VERY PROFITABLE

Michael Noonan, of Buffalo, N. Y., has the habit now and the money, and he is going to keep both. But a year ago he had not either. A year ago Noonan was arraigned in a Buffalo police court. Judge Piper decided that what Mike needed most was a course in thrift and saving, so he was sentenced to turn over $15 a week for a year to the probation officer of the court, to be invested in Government Savings Stamps.

Noonan faithfully obeyed the mandate of the court. In fact, as he says he "got stuck on it." Some weeks he handed over more than the required amount, his top figure for one week being $48.

On the day his probation was up the probation officer was in court to turn over a thousand dollars, the result of the year of saving, but Noonan did not show up. He then reached Noonan by telephone.

"I have got $1,000 for you, Mike," he said. "You can have it in the Savings Stamps or you can have the money. Come over and get it."

"I'm too busy," answered Noonan over the wire. "Let the Stamps wait. Why should I be coming over for them today? I'd have to lay off and I'd lose money."

Noonan has the habit.

EDUCATIONAL TOOTH TALK—18

Teeth and Self Respect

Good teeth bespeak good breeding and self-respect. Those with whom you are not personally acquainted pass first judgment when they meet you. And, though it is true that a prince may be clothed in rags, it is also true that that first impression based on what is visible, goes a long way in that judgment of you. You cannot hide your teeth from those you meet. People see them, whether they are beautiful and are straight or irregular, unsightly and discolored. You are conscious of either condition. Dental science has a remedy for every defect.—Dr. H. M. Wright, Traders Bank Building.

Don't Miss the Short Course at Ky. State

Although the short course in agriculture to be given by the University of Kentucky begins November 1, any students who wish to remain at home until after election day, November 2, may do so and then register November 3 without any serious delay in class work, according to an announcement made today by Prof. George Roberts, assistant to the dean of the College of Agriculture.

The first term of the short course will end with the Christmas holidays and will include a series of special lectures, which will be given in Room 205, Agricultural Building, during the fifth hour Thursday of each week. President Frank McVey will address the students on some appropriate subject, the title of which will be announced later. Judge W. T. Lafferty, dean of the College of Law, will give a series of lectures on farm law which will be of unlimited value to the young farmer. Dean Thomas P. Cooper will address the students on the subject of Agricultural Economics and very probably will divide the subject into several lectures. Miss Mary E. Sweeney, head of the department of home economics, will talk on her departmental subject and tell how through it to reduce the cost of living. Other speakers to be selected will probably give lectures, talks or programs of much lighter character and some will be entirely for entertainment. The lecture course, as it is planned this year, will answer to the chapel period planned for the regular university student.

The second term of the short course will begin January 5, after the holidays and Farm and Home Convention week will be a special feature of the term. At that time the leading authorities of the country will be on the several programs of the week and all other short course work will be adjourned in order that the students may benefit by the lectures.

Fashion is the main cause of the increased cost of living, but many people regard it as a necessity.

Feeding and Caring For the Laying Hen

There has been much discussion and many experiments conducted in an effort to prove what a hen should be fed in order to prove the maximum amount of eggs. These experiments have varied and various results have been obtained. The Poultry Department of the Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky., has just completed the third year of experimental work in the feeding of cottonseed meal in a laying ration for hens. They have found out in this experiment that as a rule, the farm flock receive sufficient grain to make the yolk of an egg; but unless they are fed some special feed, like tankage, buttermilk or commercial meat scraps, they do not have sufficient animal protein to make the white of an egg.

Other experiments have been to determine the need of cottonseed meal as a supplementary feed for laying hens. They have found out that it is not necessary to use this material. On the other hand, it is all important that tankage or buttermilk or cottonseed meal be fed in conjunction with grain feeds.

"Found Seven Rats Dead in Bin the Next Morning."

Robert Woodruff says: "My premises were infested with rats. I tried RAT-SNAP on friend's recommendation. Next morning found seven dead rats in bin, two near feed box, three in stall. Found large number since. No smell from dead rats—RAT-SNAP dries them up. Best thing I have ever used." Three sizes, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Chenaunt & Orear.
